EVENT DESCRIPTION

Join us for a roundtable and site tour event where we'll explore the latest innovation in concrete construction: Insulating Concrete Forms (ICFs). You'll learn how ICFs are helping apartment developers and other building owners provide high-performance concrete buildings at a competitive first cost and low operating cost.

October 17: We'll start the evening with a reception and dinner at the Intercontinental Hotel, Milwaukee.

October 18: We'll meet at Walker's Landing, an ICF apartment building, where you'll learn from the developer, architect and contractor about their experiences designing and building with ICFs. They will tell you about energy efficiency, fire safety and noise reduction provided by concrete construction. You will have a chance to ask questions during the roundtable discussion before taking a tour of Walker's Landing.

WHO SHOULD ATTEND

Developers, architects, engineers, building owners and contractors. Product manufacturers and distributors will also benefit.

REGISTRATION

$145 for the first attendee (SPONSOR), free for accompanying guest.

If you have questions, please contact Michael Wymant, MWymant@nrmca.org or (847) 376-9044.
